The angry clouds are driven Across the scowling heaven, In vain the sters have striven To show their shimmering light; One broad and mighty shadow Clothes stream and hill and meadow, And weeded like a widow

Droops down the gloomy night. Across the pathway shooting, The spectral owl goes hooting, The yelping fox is footing

His way along the moor; Within the farmers's houses The baying watch dog rouses, Then stretches down and drowses, And dreams upon the floor.

The roosted cock, right early, Sings out his summons cheerly, And through the night-air clearly The shrill notes float away; And, o'er the common pealing,

Comes many an answering feeling, Till now like echo stealing The distant sounds decay. The ways with snows are blocking, Against the casement knocking,

The wind makes dismal mocking, With gusty rise and fall; On creaking hinges hanging The garden gate is banging. And drearily and clanging The windows one and all.

Through crannied hovels wheezing, The bitter wind goes breezing, Where lie old crones half freezing, And dread, yet long for light; Within the rich man's chambers Glow bright the cheerful embers,

And scarcely he remembers How goes the fearful night. Little children, all together, Cling closer to each other, Nor mind the wintry weather,

Within their bed so warm; The good-man has been praying, The good-wife has been saying 'God help the traveler straying In such a night of storm! Heap up the fire more cheerly,- We'll hail the new year early, The old one has gone fairly,-A right good year and true! We've had some pleasant rambles, And merry Christmas galbols. And roses with our brambles,-Adieu, old year adieu!

Here comes the new year duly, We'll give him welcome truly, Come, mark the score up newly,-Time flies apace away ! Let's meet him like a lover, His brows with chaplets cover,-Yet hold him for a rover. Nor care to bid him stay!

For The Tribune. The Marine Corps.

Let us examine more particularly the nature of these objects. In regard to the first, I conceive the estimate of the Secretary far within the mark, yet, taking that seventy millions as the outside. the importance of the duty must be manifest .-That thefts are continually committed may not appear surprising, let any one disposed to doubt the soundness of the Secretary's suspicions walk through and examine some of our Navy-Yards, half or one-third guarded. A straggling watchman (not attached to the service) may be stumuled over, half asleep, or anxious only to show a stranger the nature of his authority by annoying him with petty prohibitions in places where no damage is possible, while these parts of the establishment which essentially require the presence of a guardian are left entirely unprotected, if we may use the latitude to consider a civil watchman's protection in any event. In fact, a watchman of this kind rarely dares to do his whole duty, and the fault is hardly his own when stricken with a sudden blindness, as is too often the case. A soldier has no friends or enemies; watchmen are surrounded with either, according to the way he performs his duties.

The second and sixth are of great importance to commanding officers generally, and not a ship within my knewledge, for some years past, has left the United States without repeated, unavailing applications for a larger guard than could possibly be furnished, many being compelled to leave with less than half the number allowed by law.

The very recent case of the brig Somers must assuredly cause unpleasant reflections to these who have permitted their votes or influence, either actually or negatively, to tolerate a state of matters from which such an appalling course of circumstances could possibly take growth.

In the latter part of 1840, a number of letters from commanding officers of ships, inveighing in have leave to adjourn the case to the Circuit Court. terms as just as they were strong against the practice of allowing ships and navy-yards to be so inadequately guarded, were placed in the hands of the Secretary of the Navy, (J. K. Paulding;) but I doubt if he ever laid them before the House or Naval Committee. Mr. Paulding's peculiar sentiments in reference to the Navy perhaps governed him in this as in many other matters of interest to that branch of the service entrusted to his care. The third mentioned object is of much greater importance than might generally be supposed by those unacquainted with the subject. In 1836 I was in a foreign port when an attempt was made to sack the city, during the absence of all the able bodied natives and citizens with the army, by some hundred military deserters and banditti. Their purpose was checked by the bold stand taken by the guard of an American Frigute, small as it was, and many millions of the property of American citizens were saved; but more might have been done, and much alarm, expense and atrocity provented, if the number of the Marines had been treble that allowed by our miserably parsimonious system. This is but one of numerous instances under this head in which the absolute necessity of large guards in our ships has been proved; and I only mention it has having come under my immediate observation as an eye witness. Hundreds of American citizens in distant quarters of the world have had to attribute the loss of fortune, personal liberty, and sometimes even of life, in a great measure to the inefficiency of our ships' guards. The value of the fourth object must be evident to those who will refer to the details of the last war with England, Barney's defence, the Florida war, the affair of Quallah Battoo, and the universal history of the British Navy. The fifth, explains itself and shows how very groundless the objection of mere expense is, when connected with this question. To increase the number of Marines would at the end of the year cost the country little or nothing-their duties as sailors pay for themselves, and their duties as soldiers on board ship are thrown in gratis; as a ship that is entitled to 700 seamen with forty marines, may easily dispense with sixty sailors to make up the proper complement of one hundred marines, and as the marine's pay is less than a sailor's, the gain will be both on the side of the ship and that of the Government-one in dollars, and the other in force, security, and respectability. If these be facts, and I take them to be incon trovertible ones, why is it that opposition to an increase is to be met in any quarter? Where can objections come from? Is it said that the corps is now large enough to attain the objects enumerated? Let us see.

SATURDAY, December 31. Beand of Supervisors .- Alderman Balis in the Chair. A resolution was offered by Alderman Davies for an ap plication to the Legislature authorizing the collectors of taxes to charge 1 per cent, additional on arrears, after 20th of Feb. next, and a still farther addition of 1 per cent. each month afterward; and that all laws inconsistent with this he repealed .- Adopted. Ald. Davies moved that the Counsel of the Board and Ald. Purdy be appointed a Committee to wait upon the Legislature with the resolution. Mr. Pur-dy begged to be excused, stating that he had signed such a nultitude of applications for office that he feared his presence at Albany would be attributed to improper motive. Ald. Lee preposed Ald. Woodhull, but that gentleman was not present. Ald. Leonard was then appointed. It was ordered that the resolution be published in all the city

Ald. Jones offered a resolution of reference for the as sessing of personal tax which had not been returned by the assessors. He observed that he alluded particularly to some 7 or $8,000,000 of Bank stock which had been omitted, but which the Counsel of the Board said could be taxed. Of this amount was the Bank of Commerce $5,000,000, and two other Banks - Adopted.

Mr. Lorsammed up for the defence, and Mr. Foote for the prosecu tion. The Court charged that neither the Court nor jury had any thing to do with consequences as to the parties If the drafts were finally payable, as had been contended or their full amount in New-York, and the Bank charged to more than legal interest, no usury appears to have bee exercised; but if the parties receiving the drafts were comselled, it rough the operation of the Bank, to pay more tha e per cent, the Bank has incurred the forfei are of its char ter, and a nonsuit must be rendered for plaintiff. The jury after a short absence, returned a verdict in favor of de Postroad Direct to Albany-Mail Routes.

The attention of our city is just now called anew to the long-vexed question of a Railroad to Albany. Two large maps are suspended in the Merchants' Exchange, one of the survey through the interior, the other of the line along or near the margin of the River. The respective parties are claiming preference and warmly discussing superiority of location. It is not our intention to advocate either line, but to express a hope that something may be done to settle all dispute and to stop the cant and humbug which is so freely dispensed to our fellowcitizens. The two lines look very well on paper, and the reports of each, as usual, attribute to its proper route all the advantages that can properly be imagined to exist for the support of a railread. It is perfectly unaccountable that our Common Council did not go more thoroughly into an inquiry which was so plainly essential not only for the pub lic good, but to set at rest all clamor in relation to it, and to give confidence to those who are disposed to invest their money in the enterprise. It appears that there was a pamphlet printed, at the expense of the city, entirely devoted to the interest of the New-York and Albany Railroad Co. and the Committee appointed to report on the merits of both routes, and who were urged by respectable citizens of New-York to institute a thorough investigation, have given no substantial reasons for neglecting the duty. Their constituents cannot feel satisfied that our City Government should sanction such proceedings. If it should prove true, as the advocates of the River route contend, that the construction of a Railroad upon it would most effectually promote the interests of our city, what excuse could be offered by the men to whom we confide our dearest interests. We demand an explanation through your paper, and if they cannot ive more substantial reasons for their conduct than have yet transpired, we trust they will speedily make amends by appointing a Committee of such individuals as may be competent to ascertain all necessary facts, and who, above all, cannot be influenced by partizan or sectional interest. COLTON'S MEDICATED CANDY.—

Flease allow me, through the columns of your paper, to call the attention of those who are suffering from coughs, colds, &c. to a preparation for the relief of difficulties of this kind by C. F. Coiton of this city.

Thave made frequent use of Colton's Medicated Cough Candy, and in all cases to my entire satisfaction. Also, I have been personally acquainted in cases of others who have used it with like results.

It is evidently an agreeable and efficacious medicine, and may be taken freely without prejudicial effects upon the system. In this last respect particularly it is decidedly superior to the generality of articles of the kind now offered in the market as safe and harmless medicine, and is thereby, in connection with its medicinal merits, justly entitled to the first and highest confidence of those who may wish the relief which it claims to afford.

It is confidently believed one trial of this Candy can hardly tail to secure for it all future patronage.

It is for sale at the store of C. F. Colton, Druggist, No. 201 Main street, and by other Druggists in the city.

Hartford, Nov. 30, 1342. [N. E. Weekly Review. Sold by A. B. & D. Sands, Druggists, Nos. 79 and 100 Fulton-street, at wholesale and retail; also soid by A. B. Sands & Co., 273 Broadway, corner of Chambers street; David Sands & Co., 77 East Broadway, corner of Marketstreet.

The subjoined certificate will be read with interest:

"Philadelphia, Oct. 1, 1841.

Messra: Editori—Deafness is a disease which has bitherto been considered incurable, but I can inform the public that it is a mistaken idea. I have been deaf for ten years, and concluded that I must remain so; but not many months since I saw in your paper an advertisement of Scarpa's Oil for Deafness. As the last resort I concluded to try it. I am new happy to say I can hear as well as I ever did. Two of my friends likewise tited it. One of them was so deaf that he used an ear trumpet; now he hears perfectly well without it. The other was very much troubled with uoises in the ears and head, and he at sace found relief, and is well. Two bottles cured me, which I thought getting well pretty cheap. WORMS IN CHILDREN .- Of all diseases to which children are exposed, none are so fatal to them as Worms. Unfortunately, children are seldom free from them, and, as they insitate the symptoms of almost every other complaint, they often produce alarming effects without being suspected. Worms are not only a cause of disease themselves, but by their irritation aggravate all other diseases, wandering from one part of the body to the other, winding themselves up into large bails and obstructing the bowels, and frequently the throat, causing convulsions, and too often death. The desired remedy will be found in Dr. JAYNE'S TONIC VERMIFUGE, which will very soon destroy the Worms, and invigorate the powers of digestion so as to prevent a return of them.
